

ENVIRONMENTAL FEDERATION OF OKLAHOMA

Jennifer Wasinger

Jennifer Wasinger has spent her career navigating the environmental regulation landscape. At Freese and Nichols, where she is an Associate and the Client Services Leader in the Central Plains Region, she guides design teams and clients on environmental documentation required by ODEQ, OWRB and ODOT for state and local projects.

Her expertise draws on more than 20 years of working for the State of Oklahoma, where she oversaw grant and loan programs, managed environmental teams, played a key role on NEPA decisions and coordinated verification that environmental programs complied with funding regulations.

Jennifer's national experience includes serving five years on EPA's Environmental Financial Advisory Board, which recommended ways for the agency's administrators and offices to increase investments in environmental and public health protection while reducing costs. In addition to EFO, Jennifer is active with the Oklahoma Water Environment Association, Oklahoma Floodplain Managers Association, and Women in Transportation, but is most passionate about her almost two decades of work with the nonprofit, Keep Oklahoma Beautiful.
